

About the Supplement Authors

Bryan Cahill is a shareholder in the Madison office of Godfrey & Kahn, S.C. Mr. Cahill litigates eminent domain and land-use cases, defends products-liability and insurance sales practice actions, and represents clients in commercial litigation from pre-suit advising through trial and appeals. He served as a law clerk to Justice David T. Prosser on the Wisconsin Supreme Court, and he serves as a supplemental court commissioner in Dane County.

C. Kai Hovden is a litigation associate in the Madison office of DeWitt LLP. His practice includes appeals, intellectual property litigation, employment law matters, and business disputes. Kai received his undergraduate degree in international politics and Spanish from Winona State University in 2014 and his J.D., cum laude, from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 2017. He is admitted to practice in Wisconsin state courts and in the U.S. District Courts for the Eastern and Western Districts of Wisconsin.

Michael R. Kruse is a litigation attorney in the Brookfield office of DeWitt LLP. His practice focuses on personal injury, business disputes, contract cases, and other litigation matters. Michael graduated cum laude from Augustana University with degrees in economics and business administration in 2010 and received his J.D., cum laude, from Saint Louis University in 2013 with a certificate in employment law. Michael is admitted to practice in Wisconsin and its federal district courts.

Heather Macklin is a shareholder and member of the litigation practice group in the Appleton office of Davis|Kuelthau, s.c. She represents individuals and businesses, ranging from small start-ups to global conglomerates, in a broad spectrum of industries and in all manner of litigation matters. Her clients include contractors and manufacturers, financial institutions, luxury-good retailers, real estate developers, closely held corporations, partnerships, and publicly traded companies. She earned her J.D. from the University of Chicago Law School and her undergraduate degree from North Central College in Naperville, Illinois.

Blake A. Nold is a member of the litigation practice group in the Milwaukee office of Davis|Kuelthau, s.c. Blake graduated from Marquette University Law School, cum laude, and served as the senior articles editor of the Marquette Law Review. Before attending law school, Blake earned both his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Business Administration degrees from Assumption College, where he played on the football team.

Richard Orton is a partner and trial lawyer with Gass Turek LLC in Milwaukee. Mr. Orton handles a variety of civil trials and appeals, focusing his practice on products liability, general liability, professional liability, and commercial, construction, and insurance litigation. He represents clients in complex claims in state and federal courts throughout Wisconsin and the United States. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin Law School and Marquette University.

