

About the Supplement Authors

Shannon A. Allen is a partner in the Brookfield office of DeWitt LLP. She received her B.S. from the University of Southern California (with honors) in 1992 and her J.D. from the University of Wisconsin in 1995. Shannon's focus is on litigation and related counsel. Her employment law practice focuses on advising employers concerning a wide range of employment matters, including hiring, firing, and discrimination-related matters and employee handbooks. Shannon routinely represents employers before administrative agencies as well as in state and federal courts.

Stephanie M. Brown is an administrative law judge with the Equal Rights Division (ERD) of the Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development. Prior to joining the ERD, she practiced employment law, representing employees. Ms. Brown received her undergraduate degree from Marquette University and her law degree from Marquette University Law School.

Martha Burke graduated from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 2022 and joined Hawks Quindel S.C. immediately after graduating. She is a bilingual attorney and represents employees in employment discrimination, worker's compensation, and wage and hour cases. She is a board member of EJI Inc., a nonprofit that supports the work of the University of Wisconsin Law School clinics.

John C. Gardner is a partner in the Madison office of DeWitt LLP. He received his B.S. from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 2000 and his J.D. from Marquette University in 2004, graduating magna cum laude. John is a management-side employment attorney, regularly counseling employers on a wide variety of employment law matters and representing employers in federal and state courts and administrative agencies. John is a frequent presenter on employment law topics, speaking to employers, human resources professionals, law students, and attorneys. In addition, John is a frequent author of articles relating to employment law and served as the senior note and comment editor of the Marquette Law Review. John is chair of DeWitt's Labor & Employment Practice Group.

Katlyn McGarry is an associate in the Milwaukee office of Ogletree, Deakins, Nash, Smoak & Stewart, P.C. Ms. McGarry represents employers in all aspects of labor and employment issues, workplace safety, employment discrimination claims, harassment claims, wage and hour claims, and Family and Medical Leave Act and Americans with Disabilities Act claims. Ms. McGarry is a member of the State Bar of Wisconsin. She received her B.A. with honors from the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire and her Juris Doctorate with honors from Marquette University Law School.

Robert J. Muten is a shareholder in the Labor and Employment Department of Reinhart Boerner Van Deuren s.c. He represents employers in all areas of employment law. Mr. Muten received his B.B.A. (summa cum laude) from St. Norbert College. He received an M.S. in taxation from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Mr. Muten received his J.D. (summa cum laude) from Valparaiso University School of Law, where he graduated first in his class. In addition to his private practice experience, Mr. Muten spent 12 years as in-house labor and employment counsel for a global Fortune 500 company.