

About the Supplement Authors

Mary Beth Arnett completed a B.A. and J.D. at the University of Wisconsin–Madison, where she served as senior managing editor of the Wisconsin Law Review and earned the Posner pro bono award. Passionate about regulatory law and policy, she found that the world of public interest advocacy in Washington, D.C., was a natural fit. As associate editor at the Environmental Law Institute, she worked with experts in law firms, government, academia, and public interest and enjoyed watching oral arguments in the U.S. Supreme Court press section. Ms. Arnett has achieved more than 10 years’ experience as a guardian ad litem for children and adults and has participated in Wisconsin’s Indian Child Welfare Act–continuous quality improvement project.

Casey A. Holtz, Ph.D., is an associate professor of psychology at Wisconsin Lutheran College and has a private clinical psychology practice. He obtained his Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from Marquette University. Dr. Holtz teaches a variety of classes related to child abnormal psychology, child development, and learning and memory. His private practice focuses on supporting families through divorce as a child specialist and therapist, parent coach, or family therapist. He also conducts psychological testing for school- and legal-related purposes and provides therapy for children and adolescents. Dr. Holtz publishes frequently, with the majority of his research in the area of early childhood assessment.

Chantelle Ringe is an attorney with the law firm of Hill, Glowacki, Jaeger & Hughes, LLP, practicing in the areas of estate planning, special needs law, estate and trust administration, guardianship and guardian ad litem matters, elder law, and real estate transactions. She obtained a Juris Doctorate from DePaul University College of Law (Chicago) in 2006 and a Bachelor of Arts in English and Political Science from the University of Wisconsin–Madison in 2003. Ms. Ringe is a member of the State Bar of Wisconsin, the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys, the Legal Association for Women, the Madison Estate Planning Council, the Forum for Women Estate Counselors, and the Dane County Committee on Aging. She is also a member of the Elder

Law and Real Property, Probate & Trust Sections of the State Bar, and currently sits on the board of directors for Home Health United Visiting Nurse Service Foundation.

Jeffrey Spitzer-Resnick graduated from Boston College Law School in 1985, cum laude. He is currently the principal and owner of Systems Change Consulting. For 31 years, he has engaged in effective systems change advocacy, initially on behalf of the elderly and for the past 21 years on behalf of children with disabilities, including in the area of special education and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act. He has done this in virtually every forum and method possible, including individual litigation and class actions, state and federal lobbying, grassroots organizing, consumer and professional training, and publications.