

About the Author

Aaron R. Gary is a senior attorney with the Wisconsin Legislative Reference Bureau (LRB) and has been the drafter of the state statutes regulating alcohol beverages for more than 20 years. He has published articles and given presentations on alcohol beverages law. Before joining the LRB, Aaron was in private practice for six years, focusing on business litigation and intellectual property law. Immediately after law school, Aaron served judicial clerkships with two state supreme courts. Aaron graduated from Stanford University in 1988 with degrees in economics and English and graduated Order of the Coif from the University of California, Davis Law School in 1992. Aaron previously served on the board of directors of the business law section of the State Bar of Wisconsin. He presently serves as a commissioner on the Uniform Law Commission (ULC) and previously served as a member of the ULC's Study Committee on Direct to Consumer Sales of Wine, Beer, and Distilled Spirits. Aaron serves as the reporter of the ULC's Drafting Committee on Registration and Licensing of Direct-To-Consumer Sales of Wine and the Prevention of Illegal Sales Act (to be renamed). As the reporter, he is responsible for providing the Drafting Committee with drafting and research services and legal expertise.

