Keeping up with the Constitution

Societal goals, beliefs, and customs keep evolving, but our Constitution remains the underpinning of our country. Even after 200 years, the Constitution continues to define our freedoms and our justice system in a changing world.

Explore and analyze current trends in constitutional law and receive valuable insights for your practice at the Annual Constitutional Law Symposium. Take a closer look at:

- Second Amendment jurisprudence
- Issues involving federal jurisdiction
- Partisan and racial gerrymandering cases
- Using amicus briefs effectively
- The Right to Try Act

To pledge or not to pledge

Discover important lessons from the landmark 1943 case West Virginia v. Barnette. Learn why this ruling is still relevant today and what it means when the Supreme Court overrules a previous decision on the same issue.

From Nuremberg to now

Enjoy a fascinating examination of Justice Jackson's opening statement at the Nuremberg Trials — that the law must condemn aggression by any nation, even nations that sit in judgement upon another. Is his statement compatible with our Constitution?

Register today to learn this and more!
