44th Annual Worker's Compensation Update

Worker's comp check-in

Our annual worker's compensation program is about bringing clarity and candidness to the often chaotic situations that applicant and defense attorneys face. That mission has never been truer than this year.

The 44th Annual Worker's Compensation Update will plunge into the topic of the year: the novel coronavirus. Presenters will take an in-depth look at how the ongoing pandemic is affecting worker's compensation practice. You'll receive updates from the Worker's Compensation Advisory Council (WCAC) and Department of Workforce Development (DWD), as well as tools and techniques to keep your claims swimming along.

- Strategies for managing the real-world issues of representing injured workers
- What does or doesn't meet the standard for a bad faith argument
- How to respond to all-too-common ethical scenarios
- The latest regarding the advisory council's agreed upon bill

Who should attend:

- Worker's compensation lawyers
- Employment law attorneys
- Insurance attorneys

How you'll benefit:

- Discover how COVID-19 can qualify as a worker's compensation injury
- Get updates from the WCAC and DWD
- Learn how to mediate and communicate more effectively over video
- Hear from panelists about emerging ethics issues as a result of the pandemic
