

About the Supplement Authors

Sarah Bondar is a first-generation college graduate born and raised in southeast Wisconsin. She started her legal career as a second career, after a career in public safety as a 911 dispatcher and police officer. She is a litigation attorney with Schott, Bublitz & Engel s.c., Waukesha, with a child-focused practice concentrated in family law, juvenile law, education law, mental health law, and Social Security disability. Sarah is a member of the State Bar of Wisconsin Board of Governors (District 6); an active member of the State Bar of Wisconsin's Family Law, Dispute Resolution, and Children and the Law Sections; and currently serves as president-elect of the Waukesha County Bar Association. She is also admitted to practice in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin. In addition to her professional work, Sarah is deeply involved in community advocacy. She holds leadership roles with organizations including We EmpowHER and the Lupus Foundation of Wisconsin and actively supports suicide-prevention initiatives through NAMI and the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention. She has a particular passion for mental health and wellness for those professionals in high-stress and high-profile careers. She has realized that her passion in life is advocacy, fueled by her desire to advocate for those who cannot advocate for themselves. She also holds the title of USOA's Mrs. Southeast Wisconsin and promotes empowerment through her mission and belief that we are Made4More.

Anne M. Jaspers is a solo practitioner in Milwaukee. Her current practice is almost entirely as a family court guardian ad litem and mediator. Before entering solo practice, she worked at the Office of the State Public Defender, Catholic Charities Legal Services for Immigrants, and Civitas Law Group. Anne graduated from the University of Wisconsin–Madison with degrees in social work and Spanish and from Marquette University Law School, cum laude.

Eve Dennison Pollock is a 1999 graduate of the University of the Wisconsin Law School and holds a B.A. from Luther College in Decorah, Iowa. She has been in private practice since 1999 and currently works at Koritzinsky Legal Group LLC in Madison. Her practice consists primarily of acting as guardian ad litem (GAL) in the areas of family law, probate, juvenile court, guardianships, termination-of-parental-rights (TPR), adoptions, and protective-placement matters. Since 2005, she has served on the Dane County contract for GALs taking cases in minor and adult guardianships, juvenile court matters (CHIPS, JIPS, and TPR), and paternity actions. She has served as the GAL contract liaison since 2015, managing relations between the contract GALs and the judges and court system in Dane County. She served on the board of the State Bar of Wisconsin's Children & the Law Section from 2012 until 2015 and is currently a member of the Family Law and Children & the Law Sections. She has presented on GAL work in Wisconsin at numerous conferences and trainings, including State Bar of Wisconsin seminars and the University of Wisconsin Law School. She has been a coauthor of the chapter on guardianships in the State Bar's Wisconsin Attorney's Desk Reference since 2017.

Ally Seneczko is a 2020 graduate of the University of Montana School of Law and graduated from the University of Wisconsin–Madison with her bachelor's degree in rehabilitation psychology. Ally has more than 10 years of experience advocating for individuals with disabilities across various systems. Ally has represented individuals with disabilities in challenging unnecessarily restrictive and overbroad guardianships and is a strong advocate for alternatives to guardianship and supported decision-making. Ally formerly supervised the special education team at Disability Rights Montana and more recently worked as the lead attorney for education at Disability Rights Wisconsin. Ally is now a solo practitioner and continues to represent students with disabilities and their families in K–12 special education matters. Throughout her career, she has authored articles and presented on alternatives to guardianship, supported decision-making, and current issues in school law.
